

*6522 Gunn Hwy.,
Tampa, FL
33625*

AUSTIN RUSHNELL

Austin Rushnell has worked in land development for five years, and has extensive experience as an academic historian; these skills are utilized at LB.AI to form unique perspectives and for keen analysis at problem-solving.

Austin Rushnell graduated from the University of South Florida with a B.A. in History and a Minor of Fine Art. Having moved to Ireland, he earned a M.A. in Irish History from University College Cork. He is currently enrolled in a Ph.D. program at the University of the Highlands and Islands.

Previously in his professional career, in his professional career, he wrote as a journalist with Hometown News (Brevard County), whose journalistic reach covers the entirety of the county, which is a readership of more than 61,000. He has also conducted independent historical research in the field of Early Medieval Irish history, and has presented multiple lectures as a professional historian. Austin Rushnell researches and produces academic essays to accompany these lectures, which have on multiple occasions sold out.

Austin has worked as a Land Project Manager at LandBuilder on numerous projects, bringing communities such as Avalon West of Spring Hill from conception to closing.